Soybean oil is commonly grocery store shelves.

U.S. GROWN SOYBEAN OIL IS HEART HEALTHY

Health professionals have long regarded soybean oil, commonly labeled as vegetable oil, as a healthy cooking oil. Now, thanks to the Food and Drug Administration's July 2017 authorization of a qualified health claim confirming soybean oil's ability to reduce the risk of coronary heart disease, consumers will begin to see heart-healthy labeling on bottles.

REDUCED RISK OF CHD

The new health claim that will appear on labels of qualified soybean oil and soybean oil-containing products* states: "Supportive but not conclusive scientific evidence suggests that eating about 1½ tablespoons (20.5 grams) daily of soybean oil, which contains unsaturated fat, may reduce the risk of coronary heart disease. To achieve this possible benefit, soybean oil is to replace saturated fat and not increase the total number of calories you eat in a day. One serving of this product contains [x] grams of soybean oil."¹

"Lowering intake of saturated fat and replacing it with unsaturated fats, especially polyunsaturated fats, like those found in soybean oil, will lower the incidence of cardiovascular disease."

Dietary Fats and Cardiovascular Disease,
A Presidential Advisory from the American Heart Association, June 2017.

FAVORABLE FATTY ACID PROFILE

Most soybean oil is made with U.S. grown soybeans and has a favorable fatty acid composition, containing 0 grams of trans fat and just 2 grams of saturated fat per 1 tablespoon serving. It is an excellent source of alpha-linoleic acid (ALA) omega-3's; the ALA found in soybean oil is the principal source of omega-3s in the U.S. diet.²³ It is also one of the few non-fish sources of omega-3 polyunsaturated fatty acids.⁴⁵ Omega-3s affect cardiovascular health and may reduce blood pressure.⁶

*Qualified products have a minimum of 5 grams of soybean oil per reference amount customarily consumed.¹

SOY PROTEIN: HEART HEALTHY & SUSTAINABLE

Soy is a complete plant-based protein that provides all essential amino acids and is similar to animal products in terms of protein quality.

Soyfoods and ingredients are versatile, and can be used in a variety of recipes as substitutions for traditional ingredients. Soy-based ingredients can promote moisture and flavor retention, boost protein content and enhance the texture of many foods. Soy is also the only plant protein that carries the FDA's heart health claim.

THE FARMER COLLECTION

Almost half of the land in the United States is devoted to farming. Soybeans are the second largest crop grown on U.S. soil, making soybean farmers' dedication to the land crucial. As stewards of the land, U.S. soybean farmers employ sustainable practices such as crop rotation, reduced tillage, and water and nutrient management to ensure that the land is healthy for future generations.

Ninety-seven percent of U.S. farms are family owned. Soy Connection's Farmer Collection is a recipe series developed by United Soybean Board (USB) farmers and their families. The recipes in this collection feature farmers' favorite U.S. grown ingredients, including farm-fresh eggs, crisp and crunchy greens, just-picked apples, hearty pecans, and of course, versatile, heart healthy, U.S. grown soybean oil.

USB's 73 farmer-directors work on behalf of all U.S. soybean farmers to achieve maximum value for their soy checkoff investments. These volunteers invest and leverage checkoff funds in programs and partnerships to drive soybean innovation beyond the bushel and increase preference for U.S. soy. That preference is based on U.S. soybean meal and oil quality and the sustainability of U.S. soybean farmers. As stipulated in the federal Soybean Promotion, Research and Consumer Information Act, the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service has oversight responsibilities for USB and the soy checkoff.
